Throngs View Body Lying in State and Roosevelt Among Mourners.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29 .- When the doors of St. John's Church, at Sixteenth and H streets, were opened at 10 A. M. to-day, throngs were gathered at the edifice waiting to pay the last tribute to Gen. Joseph Wheeler. whose body lay in state there.

At the head of the middle aisle on a bier rested the casket, a guard of honor belected from the ranks of the Spanish War Veterans being ranged on either side. On the casket, which was covered with the national colors, was the general's sword. The church was heavily draped in mourning.

Although the crowd was great, there was perfect order and decorum, the police arrangements being perfect. Four hours were allotted the public to pay their respects to the dead, and among the thousands who walked up the sisle and stopped for a moment at the coffin were many notables. tention of being present at the services the rules. An inspector will board each which began at 2 P. M.

The services, which were brief, were conducted at the church by Rev. Dr. Roland C. Smith, rector, and Rev. Dr. Ernest Stires, of St. Thomas's Church, New York, who conducted the funeral services held in New York yesterday, and who accompanied the body to Washington to perform the last rites procession to the cemetery was started. First in line were the United States troops detailed by the Wor Department as the military escort. In the gloence of an infantry organization in the immediate vicinity of Washington, a battalion of engineers from Washngton Barracks represented that branch of the service.

A squadron of cavalry from Fort Myer and the cavalry band and a battery of field artillery, also from Fort Myer, completed the escort. With the covalry was led a riderless horse, denoting that one of the country's soldiers has been lost from the ranks.

The body was drawn on a caiseon drawn by four horses and the casket was dr ped with the Stars and Stripes. Following the caisson came the veteran erganizations as follows: United Confederate Veterans' Association, of Weshington, under command of John Cailaghan, President; Grand Army of the Republic, commanded by Corpl. Tanner, commander-in-chief spanish War Voterans, commanded by the Department Commander, John L. Lewis: Company A of Wheeler's Confederate cavalry, of Atlanta, Ga., and the Army and Navy Union.

The honorary pullbearers selected were as follows: Representing the United States Army, Gen. Bates, chief of staff, on Slender Scaffold of Church Spire.

(Special to The Evening World.)
TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 29.—Patrolman James Coughlin, one of the stoutest policemen on the force, was detailed Saturday to arrest William Fletcher, employed in repairing the cross on St. Mary's Cathedral, 300 his assistant had had a dispute about wages, and the assistant made a com-plaint at police headquarters. "How am I going to get him?" asked the stout arm of the law, when instructed to arrest Fletcher.
"Climb!" was the laconic response of the desk sergeant.

The two steeplejacks waged a fierce battle as they clung to the narrow scaffolding about the spire of the church 300 feet above the earth. Holding fast sometimes with one hand, sometimes with the other, or with feet wound about the rigging, they slugged each construction of the Park avenue viaduct in New York City.

There was no written opinion, the court merely announcing the reversal of the decision of the Supreme Court of New York on the authority of the Muhisker case, in which it was held that persons living along the viguidat are entitled to easements on account of light, air and access. the desk sergeant.

The two steeplejacks waged a fierce other with fists, while below a crowd Suddenly one of the men appeared to tumble over the scaffolding. The watchers closed their eyes, waiting for the thud of a body striking the ground.

What seemed to be a fall was real ly a dexterous swing by which O'Brien had gained the rigging and made his way downward, hand over hand. Fletcher finally followed and they patched up their quarrel on the way to the station house.
